NIGERIA: -

Now busy bodies are at work again in the life of Kemi Afolabi, you will say. But we just cannot help but bring you this hot gist in town because we know you will be interested as well.

According to observers and insiders who claim they know, Kemi Afolabi is not proud of her United Kingdom based husband, Wale Adesipe. This realization was backed by what our mysterious observer call her unusual body language toward her hubby at the burial of the father-in-law in Ilesha town recently.

It was observe that the thespian was seen spending more time with her daughter and feeling more at home with her male colleagues while her husband was barely tolerated whenever event brought them together out of necessity

“From what I saw, she was more comfortable and happier with her male colleagues than her husband and that is totally inappropriate. ” - the source added.

Wale Adesipe, a graduate of the University of Bedfordshire in Luton England is based in the United Kingdom while his actress wife stays in Nigeria with their only child.
